

I) Health Psychology in Russia

This year Moscow became the venue of the European psychological Congress (2-5 July, 2019). Of the 6 thematic tracks, one was devoted to health psychology. Within this direction there were key lectures and many symposia. It is worth emphasizing that the Congress was attended by representatives of 83 countries, and very different approaches to health psychology were presented. One Symposium directly discussed the differences between theoretical concepts of health psychology in Russia and within the framework of the European society of health psychology

II) Education, training & professionalization

There has been no change in the education and training in Russia as the legislation has not changed.

III) Activities

Society members have created 4 Symposia on European psychological congress. All of them were devoted to different aspects of health psychology
